

Chapter 6

"Who are you and what are you doing here?" a person shouted.
 "Who are you and what are you doing here?" shouted Dr. Day.
 "Wait, I know that voice. Aren't you Dr. Day?" said the person.
 It was Ranger Cruz.

"Ranger Cruz! You scared us!" said Dr. Day. "Don't you go home at night?"
 "Sometimes I'm the night ranger," said Ranger Cruz. "I'm sorry I scared you. I'll walk back to the campsite with you."

When they arrived at the campsite, there was trash everywhere.
 "Oh, no!" said Annie.
 "Hey! Look at those eyes!" shouted Ted.

"Raccoons! Of course! Raccoons are dragging the trash around the park," said Dr. Day.
 One more raccoon ran through the campsite.

"You solved the mystery," said Ranger Cruz.
 "It was the kids' idea to go camping and try to help," said Dr. Day.
 "Really? Good work, kids!" said Ranger Cruz.

The next morning, a reporter and a cameraperson were waiting for Dr. Day, Annie, and Ted at the ranger's station.

Ranger Cruz spoke to the reporter. "Our litter mystery was solved last night by Ted Lee, Annie Day, and Dr. Day," she said. "They found raccoons at the campsite near the lake. Raccoons climbed into the trash cans and dragged the trash around the park. Thank you, Annie, Ted, and Dr. Day!"

"You're welcome, but our work isn't finished yet!" said Ted.
 "Litter is dangerous for people and animals. Please help the park buy new trash cans with stronger lids."

Annie smiled and said, "Please be kind to animals, too!"
