

Chapter 2

On Saturday morning, there were a lot of people at the Clean Sunnyville Walk. There were free donuts, too.

"Ted, you ate three donuts! Aren't you full?" asked Annie.

"No, I'm hungry! I didn't eat breakfast at home," said Ted.

Mr. Lee spoke to the crowd. "Welcome to the Clean Sunnyville Walk, everyone! You brought plastic bags and gloves, didn't you? Let's go!" he said. Everyone started to walk.

At Sunny Park, everyone put on their gloves and picked up the trash. Annie saw Ranger Cruz. "Ted, there's Ranger Cruz. Let's interview her for our report," she said.

Annie introduced Ranger Cruz to the camera and asked, "Why are you here today?"

Ranger Cruz answered, "Every day, I help keep the Orange Wood State Park clean and safe for people and animals. I want to help clean up our town, too. Litter looks bad, smells bad, and is dangerous for wild animals." Ranger Cruz showed them pictures of the duck in the fishing line. "Thanks, Ranger Cruz," said Annie.

Everyone walked to Main Street. Annie and Ted stopped at Dr. Day's clinic. Annie introduced her dad to the camera and asked, "Why are you walking with us today, Dr. Day?" He answered, "I'm a vet. Every day, I see animals hurt by litter."

"Look at this photo. The bird has gum on its wing. Here's an X ray of a dog's stomach. It ate a Popsicle stick," said Dr. Day.

A woman came in. Dr. Day opened a cage. A black-and-white dog ran out and jumped on the woman. "Socks is okay, Ms. Frost," said Dr. Day. "Oh, good. Thank you!" said Ms. Frost.

"Why is Socks here, Ms. Frost?" asked Annie. "Because he ate some trash in Sunny Park. People should be more careful. I'm going to join the Clean Sunnyville Walk now. You're coming, aren't you, Dr. Day?" asked Ms. Frost. "Yes. Let's go!" said Dr. Day.

They caught up with the walk at Cherry Park. Annie and Ted interviewed more people and filled two bags of trash. At 5:00 P.M., everyone put the bags of trash in the garbage truck.

Annie and Ted walked home.

"Aren't you tired?" asked Ted. "Yes, but it was fun, wasn't it?" asked Annie. "Yes, it was great! I think we're ready to write our report, too. See you tomorrow," said Ted.
