

Causative Verbs

Table of Contents

- 2 QUICK AND HANDY GRAMMAR REVIEW
Causative Verbs

- 4 EXERCISE 1: Fill in the Blanks
Write the correct form of the verbs in parentheses.

- 5 EXERCISE 2: Rewrite the Sentences
Rewrite the sentences using a causative verb.

- 6 EXERCISE 3: Pair Work
Ask and answer questions about children.

- 8 EXERCISE 4: Group Work
Create guidelines for managers to give to new employees.

- 9 EXERCISE 5: Class Survey
Ask your classmates questions using causative verbs.

- 10 EXERCISE 6: Writing
Write about your childhood.

- 11 EXERCISE 7: Quiz
Find the error in each sentence.

Quick and Handy Grammar Review

CAUSATIVE VERBS

A. Meaning

Causative verbs mean one person is causing another person to do something. English has three true causative verbs: have, let, and make.

B. Pattern

Subject + Have / Let / Make + Object + Base Verb

(person) (any tense) (person) (no ending / no tense)

C. Examples

	Positive	Negative	Question
have	The teacher had the students write essays in class.	Mrs. Johnson won't have the electrician put in an extra switch.	Do you have someone check your smoke detectors every year?
let	John's parents are letting him stay out late tonight.	Our manager never lets us go home earlier than usual.	Will she let us have an extension on the project?
make	He will make his daughter clean her room tomorrow.	The babysitter didn't make Lisa finish her dinner.	Did your boss make you write the entire report?

Quick and Handy Grammar Review cont.

D. Similar Verbs

There are other verbs in English that also mean one person is causing another person to do something. They are not true causative verbs, so they take an infinitive verb (to + base verb) instead of a base verb. From strongest to weakest, common verbs are: force, cause, get, and allow.

Examples

- My mother forces me to practice the piano every day.
- The test is causing them to panic. It's really difficult.
- He got his friend to help him move.
- Our teacher is going to allow us to go home early today.

E. Notes

Note #1

The subject and object of causative sentences are usually people, but things are also possible.

- The heavy rain made the paint peel off the building.
- The phone message made him feel nervous.
- We let the dogs run wild at the beach.

Note #2

The imperative verb form (no subject) is common with causative verbs, since both causatives and imperatives are used for giving orders.

- Have Mr. Smith call me.
- Let the dogs go outside after dinner.
- Make your staff read the report.

Note #3

Can causative sentences be passive? Yes! The passive causative is quite common for services. Get is more casual/informal than have.

Subject + Have / Get + Object + Past Participle
(person) (any tense) (thing)

- She got her hair cut (by a hairdresser).
- He is getting his car fixed.
- My sister has her nails done every weekend.

Exercise 1

FILL IN THE BLANKS

Write the correct form of the verbs in parentheses.

Ex. The teacher had her students hand in their homework.
(hand in)

1. My coworker let me _____ her pen.
(borrow)
2. He got his friend _____ him fix his car.
(help)
3. Are you making your kids _____ their rooms?
(clean)
4. The police forced the thief _____ into the police car.
(get)
5. The storm caused many trees _____ .
(fall down)
6. Will you allow your roommate _____ your food?
(eat)
7. His piano teacher makes him _____ two hours a day.
(practice)
8. Your sister doesn't let her kids _____ very often.
(go out)
9. The tour guide got the tourists _____ taking pictures.
(stop)
10. The bus driver had the troublemakers _____ the bus.
(get off)

Exercise 2

REWRITE THE SENTENCES

Rewrite the sentences using a causative verb.

Ex. The coach forced the players to do 50 pushups.

The coach made the players do 50 pushups.

1. My friend's parents allowed her to stay over at my house last night.

2. My brother forced me to do his homework for him.

3. Her neighbor got her to move her car.

4. The earthquake forced the rescue volunteers to work day and night.

5. This flood has caused people to evacuate to higher ground.

6. Did you get your boyfriend to call you?

7. The hotel manager won't allow us to bring our dog to the hotel.

8. The judge forced the clerk to retype the entire document.

9. The lack of communication caused the workers to feel unappreciated.

10. Does your boss allow you to take long lunch breaks?

Exercise 3 (Student A)

PAIR WORK

Part 1

Imagine you and your partner are parents who are discussing your children. You are Student A. Your partner is Student B. Write out your set of questions using causative verbs. Do this part by yourself.

Ex. stay up late

Did you let the kids stay up late?

1. watch TV

2. do their homework

3. take out the garbage

4. do the dishes

5. talk on the phone

Part 2

Now take turns asking each other questions. It's your choice whether to answer your partner's questions positively or negatively. Try to use causative verbs in your answers as well.

Example

A: Did you let the kids stay up late?

B: Yes, I did, but I made them do the dishes first.

Exercise 3 (Student B)

PAIR WORK

Part 1

Imagine you and your partner are parents who are discussing your children. You are Student B. Your partner is Student A. Write out your set of questions using causative verbs. Do this part by yourself.

Ex. stay up late

Did you let the kids stay up late?

1. do the laundry

2. vacuum the living room

3. go to a friend's house

4. walk the dog

5. play video games

Part 2

Now take turns asking each other questions. It's your choice whether to answer your partner's questions positively or negatively. Try to use causative verbs in your answers as well.

Example

A: Did you let the kids stay up late?

B: Yes, I did, but I made them do the dishes first.

Exercise 4

GROUP WORK

Get into groups of three or four. Imagine you are all executives on the board of a large company. It's your job to come up with ten guidelines for managers to give to new employees. Start each sentence with the imperative form of have, let, make, or allow.

Ex. Have all new staff fill out a New Employee form for HR.

1. _____
2. _____
3. _____
4. _____
5. _____
6. _____
7. _____
8. _____
9. _____
10. _____

Exercise 5

CLASS SURVEY

Ask your classmates the following questions.
If a classmate answers "yes," write his or her answer on the right.
Use causative verbs in your answers.

#	Have you ever...	Answer
Ex	made someone laugh?	John made his roommate laugh this morning.
1	let someone borrow your clothes?
2	made someone do your homework for you?
3	let a friend use your car?
4	made someone cry?
5	had a doctor check your blood pressure?
6	made someone take the blame for you?
7	let someone help you out?
8	had someone lend you money?
9	let someone walk all over you?
10	made someone help you move?

Exercise 6

WRITING

Write about your childhood. What did your parents make you do? What did they let you get away with? What did you make your brother or sister do? Write a few paragraphs using causative verbs (have, let, make) or similar verbs (force, cause, get, allow).

This image shows a single sheet of white paper with horizontal blue or grey ruling lines. The lines are evenly spaced and run across the width of the page. There are no margins, text, or other markings on the paper.

Exercise 7

QUIZ

Find one error in each sentence below. Rewrite the sentences correctly.

Ex. The teacher didn't let the students handed in their homework late.

The teacher didn't let the students hand in their homework late.

1. Do you make your son does chores?

2. She is getting the volunteers are making the food.

3. The power outage caused him is late.

4. My coach make me run around the track every day.

5. The boss didn't allowed his workers to take a lunch break.

6. My friend had me to call her after class.

7. Our parents letted us stay out late last night.

8. My manager force me to work overtime yesterday.

9. Do you let your cat to go outside?

10. They got their neighbors help them move.
